

Peter Rabbit Gazette

Week 5

Hello, it's Peter! I am happy to share some exciting news. I was at the Smiling Pool with my friends reporting on the Green Meadow Forest project when we heard the most unusual noises. People were talking about throwing wood into the Smiling Pool and then taking it out later. We were all confused because we have logs in here, and the turtles and Grandfather Frog love to sit on them so we can chat. Was it the talk of the pond! Everyone checked out the wood, but we couldn't figure out what it was for. The next day the wood was gone but when I went to get information about the Green Meadow Forest, look what I found. They used the wood to build the bridge! The water must have helped bend the wood rails just right!

You can be part of the action. Help us add more 3-D characters to the Green Meadow Forest Family and renovate the animal room!
